REQUEST FOR DIALOGUE ON THE RETURN OF THE ARCTICUS BLANCUS INDIGENOUS POLAR HAIR ETHNIC GROUP TO ITS NATURAL INDIGENOUS TRADITIONALLY OCCUPIED POLAR TERRITORIES BASED ON UN RESOLUTION A/61/295 - DECLARATION ON THE RIGHTS OF INDIGENOUS PEOPLES.

Your Excellency,

I write as Founder and President of Eugenix® Simple Stock Corporation, representing Arcticus Blancus polar hair indigenous climatic tribal group the oldest polar climate ethnic tribal group native and indigenous to the polar territories above the Arctic and Antarctic. We seek to initiate diplomatic discussions with the Republic of Finland to enable the peaceful return and reintegration of Arcticus Blancus communities to their ancestral homelands, currently administered by the Government of the Republic of Finland. Eugenix P.S.A. on the indigenous lands governed by the Republic of Finland plans to establish indigenous reservations and indigenous communities for the Arcticus Blancus indigenous polar hair tribe – returning to indigenous lands and waters based on indigenous rights established by the United Nations member states including the Republic of Finland that voted in favor of the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples in contrast to USA, Canada, Australia and New Zealand – the only United Nations members states that voted against indigenous rights.

I. Legal Basis for Return

Under United Nations Resolution A/RES/61/295 - Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples - A Manual for National Human Rights Institutions, States are obligated to recognize indigenous peoples' rights to:

- Return to the indigenous lands and waters traditionally occupied.
- Right to ownership and possession of indigenous lands and water traditionally occupied.
- Restoration of lands and waters wrongfully taken.
- Right to participate in consultations and decisions affecting indigenous lands and waters not limited to geological and biological resources.

These provisions form a clear legal foundation for facilitating the return of Arcticus Blancus indigenous polar hair ethnic tribal persons and groups to their traditional polar territories above 62°45′ North.

II. Climate and Health Considerations

The subarctic zones where many Arcticus Blancus indigenous persons currently reside do not match their millennia-old adaptation to true Arctic conditions. Scattered individuals face:

- Increased exposure to industrial pollutants and heightened UV radiation.
- Elevated risks of respiratory and oncological illnesses due to environmental mismatch.
- Loss of traditional knowledge and life systems tied to dark polar environment.

Reestablishing them in their native high polar environment safeguards their indigenous health and renews their population presence that includes their cultural and ecological stewardship over polar ecosystem especially fishery, forestry, fuels, farming and finances.

III. Governance and Fiscal Framework

No modern democracy presently inhabited by the Arcticus Blancus indigenous persons has successfully implemented a tax and fiscal regime that sustains natural ethnic climatic tribal groups without formally established indigenous rights actions. Modern democracies lack fair taxation frameworks for the strict protection of indigenous groups and corresponding ethnic matters:

- Dedicated budgets ensuring the community's reproduction rights and intergenerational continuity
- Checks and balances to maintain the population above the Minimal Vital Population (MVP) threshold, preventing risk of extinction.
- Transparent tax provisions that channel resources directly into community-led land-use planning, cultural programs, and environmental management.

In addition, religious based reproductive restrictions set on the Arcticus Blancus indigenous groups by the Christian law and recently established democracies prevent Arcticus Blancus indigenous persons to address growing imbalance of the number of females to number of males in the Arcticus Blancus indigenous group that is reaching over 200 females to less than 1 male due to restrictions that prevent natural indigenous marriages set by the foreign and destructive to polar marriages Hebrew-Christian philosophy and legal system.

IV. Protection of Resources and Unauthorized Development

(UNDRIP) Article 32(2) explicitly requires States to consult and cooperate in good faith with Indigenous peoples—through their own representative institutions—to obtain their free and informed consent before approving any project affecting their lands, territories, or resources, particularly in connection with the development, utilization, or exploitation of mineral, water, or other resources. In line with this obligation:

- No development of mineral, marine, or other natural resources in territories north of 62°45′ N may proceed without the free, prior, and informed consent of Arcticus Blancus and Eugenix® P.S.A.
- Any project above 62°45′ N in Arctic regions—or any activities in the Antarctic concerning Arcticus Blancus interests—must be blocked unless Arcticus Blancus and Eugenix® P.S.A. participate in decision-making, benefit-sharing, and environmental safeguards.
- This veto right safeguards both the cultural integrity and environmental stewardship practices of the Arcticus Blancus, ensuring that no extraction or infrastructure undermines their ancestral lands or the global climate functions they help maintain.

V. Proposed Framework for Engagement

To translate these principles into practice, we propose convening a joint working group comprising:

1. Representatives from the Republic of Finland Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Indigenous Home Rules.
2. Representatives of Eugenix® P.S.A. as the authorized Arcticus Blancus interlocutor.
3. Commissioners for the transfer of remaining indigenous territories and natural resources.
4. Commissioners for temporary provisions for tribal persons return related to short term assistance related to nutrition, housing, healthcare, education, finances - if needed.

This forum would draft a roadmap covering:

- Land restitution protocols under UN A/RES/61/295.
- Guidelines for cultural autonomy and land-use co-management.
- Ecological and environmental impact assessments tailored to Arcticus Blancus needs.
- Fiscal mechanisms and budgeting processes safeguarding MVP thresholds.

VI. Further Communication

Your Excellency Ambassador, Republic of Finland commitment to Indigenous rights, environmental diplomacy, and makes your state the ideal partner for this just endeavor. We stand ready to provide any further documentation or to meet at your earliest convenience to advance this vital discussion. I kindly attach to this correspondence several attachments.

Respectfully,

K Pawlak
